IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Butter Dull and Lower—Eggs Have Gained Up.

Boston, March 11.—Butter is dull, lower and rather unsettled in the local market and eggs have gone off a couple of cents from last week's prices, but cheese holds firm. The weakness in butter is especially apparent in fresh made stock. Storage goods are a little easier, but only a few holders are shading prices to any considerable extent. It takes a pretty fine lot of fresh made creamery butter to bring 30¢, and a large amount of stock is offered at 28¢@29¢. Business in cheese is of moderate proportions, but stocks also are small and prices hold up well. The recent high prices for eggs seem to have checked the demand and receivers had to lower their prices to do business. Receipts are very light, but large arrivals are looked for very day now.

Quotations follow: Butter—Creamery, extras, Vermont and New Hampshire 30¢, northern New York 29 1/2¢@30¢, western 29 1/2¢@30¢, 24s, northern 28¢@29¢, western 28¢@29¢, eastern creamery, best marks 29¢, fair to good 27¢@28¢, storage creamery, extras 29¢@30¢, bests 27¢@28¢, dairy fancy 28¢, common to good 27¢@27 1/2¢, western imitation creamery 22¢@24¢, western ladies 20¢@22¢, parking stock 19¢@21¢, renovated butter 22¢@24¢, baves and prints 23¢@25¢. Proposed Pittsburg Labor Temple. The executive committee of the Union Labor Temple company of Pittsburg makes this interesting report: "Your committee finds that there are approximately 75,000 union members in Allegheny county, and at one-fifth of a share each, which would be $15,000. It would amount to $750,000, or, take one-third of the union members in the county, which would be 25,000, and at one-fifth of a share each, it will amount to $250,000, and supposing that there is $20,000 being expended annually by organized labor for business agents' offices and lodge rooms, as we are given to understand is the case, then, with an expenditure of $230,000 and an income of $20,000, it will yield a dividend of 12 1/2 per cent—that is, figuring on the rental of the proposed storerooms on the first floor being sufficient to meet the running expenses of the building, we believe the dividend will exceed the amount stated above, as we have not figured on any income as yet from the proposed large auditorium for convention purposes."

Cripples in Hungary.

There is at least one law in Hungary which might be copied by other countries of the world. This is the prohibition against cripples and people who are deformed enough to offend the public eye from selling papers on the public thoroughfares. In addition, children under fourteen may not be employed in the trade.

WATCHWORD FOR ALL WORKERS.

Eight hours for work, eight hours for rest and eight hours for recreation and improvement is not only a scientific but a natural division of the day. It is a slogan and a watchword which will appeal to the nonunionist and also secure the sympathy and co-operation of all right thinking people. There is neither justification nor defense for a workday of more than eight hours.

Housewives' Wages Intact. The National Erectors' association, which is the name given to the union playing structural ironworking firm throughout this country and Canada, has announced that there will be no cut in the wages of the structural ironworkers this spring. About 10,000 men employed on structural work and perhaps as many more in the shops are affected.

WORKERS WOULD ANSWER COURTS AT BALLOT BOX—A LABOR PARTY PLANNED.

Trades Unionists Propose an Independent Political Movement to Fight the Powers Arrayed Against Them—To Meet the Enemy on Its Own Ground.

Smarting under the recent decision of the supreme court of the United States, which held that labor unions were amenable to the Sherman anti-trust law, the Central Federation of New York has taken steps to form an independent labor party under the guidance of the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of starting a campaign against arbitrary government by the courts.

The delegates of the Central Federation union were aroused to action by the decision in the case of Loewe & Co., haters, of Danbury, Conn., against the United Hatters' union and the American Federation of Labor, in which it was held labor unions became combinations in restraint of trade when they attempted to interfere with the business of a firm or corporation whose business extended into several states. In substance the decision declared that in such a case where the union enforced a boycott the boycotted firm could collect damages under the anti-trust clause of the Sherman law. The decision was given on Feb. 3 and was the third severe blow dealt to the unions by the supreme court within a few weeks.

During the meeting there was an extended discussion of the recent labor decisions of the supreme court and the course that organized labor would take in consequence of those decisions. Though there was unanimity of opinion that something must be done, and quickly done, by the unions of labor, final action upon a plan of procedure was postponed.

The subject came before the body in the form of a resolution presented by the general executive committee. In a lengthy preamble to the resolution attention was called to the recent decisions rendered by the supreme court and other courts antagonistic to the aims and methods of union labor. One of the whereas declared that "such decisions and rulings will mean the eventual destruction of the rights of free men to combine or confer and act jointly in and for their own interests, either individually or collectively." Believing that the trades union movement of this country "is facing a crisis," the executive committee proposed adoption of the following:

Resolved, By the Central Federation of Greater New York and vicinity, in convention assembled this 5th day of February, 1908, to urge upon the American Federation of Labor the issuance of a call for a conference of all trades unions at once, to be held in a centrally located city of the United States for the purpose of discussing the courts' attacks upon trades unions and for the further purpose of devising ways and means for the immediate organization of an independent political trades union movement throughout the country.

Resolved, That while the interests combined against the trades unions are entrenched in positions where they can use the legislative bodies and the courts to the detriment of the trades union movement, that is, boycotting the trades unions—the trades unions, heretofore the economic power of the boycott, should jointly enact a zealous political boycott, thus meeting the enemies of unionism on their own ground, intent upon wresting their powers from them by and through an absolutely independent political movement organized by and for the trades unions.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the American Federation of Labor and to every trades union throughout the United States, with the request to report action taken thereon to his body.

WORKERS TO PARADE.

Washington Unionists Plan Big Celebration for July 4th.

The workmen of Washington are said to be planning several events which will be of benefit and interest to the organized toilers. One of the plans contemplates the erection in the near future of a magnificent temple of labor in this city, another the building of a home for the aged and infirm and still another for a monster industrial display and parade over the streets of Washington July 4 next, the latter to be in co-operation with the celebration of liberty day by the United States Historical society.

The organized workmen showed what they could accomplish in the way of a parade last November when they marched in torchlight procession on the occasion of the visit to this city of the delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention held at Norfolk. But they believe they can largely discount that affair next July by a daylight march over the principal thoroughfares of the city. As secretary Sam De Nedrey of the Central Labor union puts it:

"We will show the Washington folks something grand and splendid, and it will be in the nature of an object lesson too."

Then the building trades unions here are also planning, it is said, and the miscellaneous trades are planning to help them resume the fight it necessary against the open shop. It is anticipated that in this contest the international bodies will actively assist the locals when the bluebirds begin to warble in the early spring and the sound of hammer and saw is heard at the beginning of the building season. The fight will be to a finish, it is said.—Washington Star.

TO ANNUAL INJUNCTION LAW.

Assemblyman Stern has introduced in the New York legislature a bill to amend the code of civil procedure relating to injunctions. The bill in part reads:

When such action (to secure an injunction) is brought to restrain the doing of an act or acts alleged to hinder, interfere with or obstruct any employer or laborer in his business by his employees actively engaged therein, discharged therefrom or having been previously employed therein and then engaged in a strike or to restrain any act or acts by labor unions or associations as acting in concert with such person or persons so previously employed or discharged, an injunction order shall not be granted except upon such notice as the court or judge may direct.

Unfamiliar Beverage. John W. Yerkes of Kentucky, ex-commissioner of internal revenue, was one of the guests at a little luncheon party in the senate restaurant the other day, and as stories of the professions were in order, he told this one concerning dentistry in the Blue Grass State. A patient entered the dental parlors of one of Mr. Yerkes' friends in Louisville. The man's eyes were bloodshot, and he was bearing several other marks of a condition for which he could not be blamed, considering he had a severe toothache. "It's awful, doctor, and I want it fixed right away," he groaned. The dentist made an examination and then asked if cold water seemed to make it worse. "Cold water!" shouted the patient in the deepest disgust. "Cold water! How in Kentucky should I
